Last month I formatted my phone by mistake.
I have deleted the last 3 years of my life.
Images of people, moments, situations: all gone.
In these confused and dramatic times in which it's clear that there's no logic that command chaos, and that chaos reigns supreme,
the rule is that we must not only prepare for the worst,
but for the worst of the worst
as well.

Treasuring this motto and trying to live by it,
I realize that it takes enormous discipline to accept all this chaos and lack of logic.

We live in a reality in which it is difficult to distinguish the glimmer of a dawn from the glow of an explosion.

And between these bursts of chaos we experience moments of illumination and lightness, of simple poetry.

How to destroy everything is a digital zine.

The collection of moments taken with my phone, my camera, etc.
